HOW TO ORDER:

You can place an order by.....

POST/FAX: Simply fill out the Order Form enclosed, and post with payment (payment may be made by cheque, money order, credit card or direct deposit) to:

The Lost Seed
PO Box 3092
BEMBOKA
NSW 2550

Alternatively, fax your order to us at fax: 02 6493 0486

ONLINE: Visit our website at www.thelostseed.com.au and order online (payment may be made using your credit card via the secure Paypal system) or Bank Deposit.

PHONE : Call us on ph: 02 6493 0486 with your order (payment may be made using credit card)

We will then hold your order until scions are harvested (August / September). Your order will then be dispatched to you by Australia Post. If you have provided us with your email address, you will be sent an email at this time to notify you that your scions have been dispatched..

WHAT IS SCION WOOD?

Scion wood is one year old wood taken from the outermost parts of the parent tree. It is approx. 15-20cm in length and approx. the same width as a pencil.

WHEN CAN I ORDER SCION WOOD?

Our scions are harvested from the trees in July / August each year (when the trees are dormant) and then posted to customers August / September.

OUR CUT OFF DATE FOR ALL
SCION ORDERS IS STRICTLY 30 JUNE

This enables us to organise harvest, prepare labels etc. Orders for scions are able to be placed at any time throughout the year, however orders are only posted to customers during the dormant season - this is why we can only post scion wood once each year.

WHAT DO I RECEIVE WHEN I PURCHASE A SCION?

The scion (cutting) you receive will be packaged in a sealed plastic bag. The scion wood will be packed with a small amount of moisture to maintain the humidity required for short-term storage.

HOW DO I STORE THE SCION WHEN I RECEIVE IT?

While ideally it should be grafted onto your existing tree or rootstock as soon as you receive it in the mail, the scion may be stored effectively in the crisper section of the fridge for 1-2 months(or longer). Storage instructions are on the bag. The packaged scion should be kept in a cool place (fridge) where it will remain fresh and dormant until spring. Do not store scions with apples (or other ripening fruit), as apples emit ethylene gas, which encourages scion's buds to break dormancy.

HOW DO I 'USE' THE SCION WOOD?

Many fruit trees do not run true to type if their seed is planted. For this reason, they are most often propagated vegetatively by grafting scion wood onto rootstock or an existing tree.

WHEN IS THE BEST TIME TO GRAFT THE SCION ONTO MY EXISTING TREE?

It is best to graft in the spring, from the time the buds of understock trees are beginning to open, until blossom time.

WHAT TREES CAN THE SCION WOOD BE GRAFTED ON TO?

Ideally, young, vigorous fruit trees up to 5 years old are best for grafting scion wood onto. Older trees of almost any age can be grafted on to but with more care and different techniques.

WHAT EQUIPMENT DO I NEED?

Secateurs - for making rough preliminary cuts

Grafting Knife (or a very sharp regular knife) - for making the grafting cuts

Grafting Tape - for securing the graft to the tree / rootstock.

HOW DO I GRAFT THE SCION WOOD ONTO MY EXISTING TREE?

There are a number of grafting techniques which are able to be used when grafting scion wood onto an existing tree / rootstock. These include the 'Splice or Whip Graft', 'Wedge or Cleft Graft', 'Whip and Tongue Graft', 'Side Graft' or 'Bark Graft'.

If you are new to grafting, it is highly recommended that you purchase the book 'Grafting, & Budding' by W. J. Lewis and D. McE Alexander. This book illustrates and discusses each of the above grafting techniques as well as provides other useful information.

KEEPING OUR HEIRLOOM FRUIT VARIETIES ALIVE.....

We are always looking for lost or undiscovered heirloom vegetable and fruit varieties.

Our roadsides are especially rich with wild fruit varieties that may have existed many years before and yet go largely unrecognised even though they may be passed by hundreds of times per day. For example, the 'Huonville Crab Apple' with scarlet red skin and red coloured flesh was discovered in Huonville, Tasmania. A huge old tree growing by the roadside, largely unnoticed, and yet producing such abundant and rich fruit of the most unusual variety.

Or perhaps down a back alley or behind a shop. They are all a part of our rich heritage just waiting to be rediscovered.

If you have any fruit trees which you feel may be of interest, or would like to register your tree, please let us know. We'd love to hear from you, and it will help us in our efforts to keep these varieties alive.

NOTE:

Scion varieties listed may be subject to change depending on availability.

Prices are subject to change without notice.

Catalogue current from 1 January 2018 to 31 December 2018.

Unless indicated otherwise on order form, if items are ordered but are currently out of stock, these items will either be substituted for a similar variety, or placed on backorder & forwarded to you as soon as possible, unless otherwise indicated..

QUARANTINE & SHIPPING

Please note that we are able to send scions to all states of Australia except Western Australia, South Australia and Tasmania.

BRAMLEY

English heirloom dating back to 1809. First grown by Mary Ann Brailsford from pips from an apple she was eating at the time. Her property was later sold to a local butcher named Matthew Bramley in 1846. A few years later the tree was noticed by a local nurseryman Henry Merryweather who approached Matthew Bramley requesting cuttings. Permission was granted on the request that the trees be named after himself.
